What is it?
A choice of a 50-mile circuit or longer 75-mile loop travelling through Hawick and Newcastleton.

Why do it?
Scenic countryside, quiet roads and interesting visitor attractions along the way. Great places to stay, high quality restaurant and coffee stops en-route.

How tough?
The shorter route is MODERATE and can easily be completed in a day. The larger circuit is HARD (suitable for more experienced cyclists) with 5 significant climbs over 300m.

Getting there
The nearest railway station to Hawick/Newcastleton is Carlisle (24 miles from Newcastleton). Several specialist organisations in the Scottish Borders, including some of the accommodation providers, will offer bike/passenger transfer services. There is a regular bus service from Carlisle to Hawick.

Where to stay?
The shorter route is best undertaken in a clockwise direction and can be started from either Newcastleton or Hawick. The longer loop is best cycled anti-clockwise and could be broken with an overnight stay in Newcastleton, Hawick or Langholm depending upon the starting location.

Many of the accommodation providers below have Cyclist Welcome accreditation or offer special facilities for cyclists such as secure bike storage and clothes-drying facilities.

There is more accommodation available in all areas Visit www.visitscottishborders.com for details.
